

Deona Çali
Independent Researcher

The League of Nations and the Albanian minority question

Through this paper, I aim to answer to the question of which was the impact of admission in the League of Nations on Albanian politics towards minorities and on the policy of other member states involved on this issue. The paper analyzes Albania's relations with the League of Nations on the issue of minorities during 1920-1924 the instruments and mechanisms by which the League of Nations conducted its own supervision as well as their efficiency. Also, foreign minorities in Albania and the control exercised by the League of Nations for respecting their rights have been examined. In order to have a full picture of the impact of adhesion to this international body on this issue, I will analyze the treatment that was given to the Albanian minority in Yugoslavia as well as the attitude it held against this issue. In dealing with the Albanian minority in Yugoslavia I refer to some of the new diplomatic resources of the League of Nations archives that help to compare the policies of the Albanian state with those of the neighbors.